THE STUFF 32. THE BEST "STORY" Lyrics. BY BOOWY. Can you imagine a U.S. prison inmate getting a crucial email that he needed to check on his new home? Well, for a New York inmate recently, this became a reality. Christopher Pappas, now 45, who was 24 years into a 15-year sentence, was waiting for his new life to begin in Buffalo. He was excited for his release in June 2017, when the move would take place after the Fourth of July weekend. In mid-July, Pappas received an email from the Federal Bureau of Prisons with a subject line reading: "Your change of address has arrived." It said he should look on the Bureau of Prisons website to view the address of his new home. "I was shocked," Pappas said. "I was excited. I was looking forward to starting my new life." "At that point, I thought my day of freedom was close," he said, "so I decided to wait until the weekend to check my email." The following morning, he glanced at his screen and saw an ominous notification from the Bureau of Prisons, which said he had received a new email and "will 754eb5d184
