It is the first Indian film to be shot in Nepal. Produced by Tanuj Garg, H.C.D and R.A.K, it is directed by Kranti Reddy and written by Ashwini Dutt. The film is produced by film distributor and film producer Tanuj Garg, Mr. Raghunandan Pant for Mr. Anup Kumar Kapil Production; and by film producer and director Kranti Reddy, director Kriti Reddy, Mr. Ashwini Dutt and actress and singer Sadhna Sargam. The film's music is composed by Ramanaa Yuvaraj. Plot The film begins with an elderly woman, Aayana, sitting on the banks of the Ganges and weeping bitterly. Her adopted son, Shiva (Allu Arjun), and his wife, Shanti (Anushka Shetty), arrive and inquire about her troubles. Shiva learns that Aayana's son, a boy she called Govinda, was killed in an accident. Shiva rushes off to Nepal to bring his brother back to Aayana, but upon reaching Nepal, he learns that Govinda has not been found and that the rest of his family, including his adopted mother, have left for India. Shiva returns to India and decides to bring the rest of his family to Nepal. He meets an old acquaintance who arranges a job for Shiva in Nepal. Shiva brings along his wife and son, who enter Nepal illegally. Upon reaching Nepal, they meet and befriend a dalit with a sweetheart, Bhanu (Rana Daggubati). Bhanu's father believes Shiva and his wife to be thieves, and forces them to leave, but Shiva promises to find his family and return, and he does so, bringing the rest of his family to Nepal. Shiva and his family find Govinda and Shanti, and Shiva reunites them with his wife and son. Shiva, after visiting a temple, gives his wife and son a vehicle and tells them that they can visit him in Nepal on certain days. Cast Production Development Anirudha Kulkarni, co-founder and CEO of Kankanmala Pictures, has been shooting his own films since the year 2000, some of which have been commercially successful. Anirudha came across Rana Daggubati when he was shooting for his film Gantantwada, and R
