[1, 2, 3, 4, 5] |> let last_element = ??? assert last_element == 5 How can I do this in Rust? A: Use take(): fn last(n: usize) -> usize { n.take() } You can also use drop() if you want the last n elements: fn last(n: usize) -> Vec { n.take().into_iter().collect() } The Score: Colts 23, Jets 18 The Colts scored their first 20 points of the game on Ryan Grigson's two touchdowns passes to T.Y. Hilton, but by halftime they had given the ball away 14 times. That didn't look like the difference it was supposed to be in a comeback win, but injuries and turnovers combined to elevate the Jets. First Quarter 3:42 left in the first quarter Shaun Hill was 15 of 24 for 201 yards, four touchdowns, and two interceptions. 3:06 left in the first quarter Grigson completed a 6-yard pass to T.Y. Hilton, giving the Colts their first lead. 2:36 left in the first quarter Grigson's second touchdown pass, this time to Artie Lingo, gives the Colts a 754eb5d184
