Tests your knowledge by playing with your friends. Have you just finished a game of Trivia? Share the result with your friends, and compete with them. Chatting with friends via the Internet is a fun activity and it can help you keep in touch with colleagues or family traveling abroad. However, if you want to make sure that neither you, nor your buddy will get bored, you can try some trivia. For example, you can use TriviaFrog Crack Free Download to test your knowledge. You will first need to open your chat client, then connect it to TriviaFrog so you can start asking your pals a wide range of questions and check their skills. The application comes with several integrated sections, and you can choose between subjects like Harry Potter, Disney, Camfrog, Movies, Riddles, UK, Video games or Wrestling, depending on your preferences. If you are unsure about the category to select, you can first explore the questions so as to make sure you are comfortable with their difficulty and contents. Additionally, you can add new questions or edit the existing ones if you are not satisfied with them, or you can import new items from a previously created database. Before starting a trivia test, you need to select the users who can take place in the game, along with the administrative rights they may have. Another thing you need to take into consideration before starting a new session with your friends is to adjust how much time you all have to give an answer, as well as how fast a new question should be displayed. To sum it up, you might need to play around with TriviaFrog until you make the most of its functions, but once you get used to it, you and your friends can have a great time challenging each others' knowledge and keep scores.
